

April 27, 1948.

Dr. H. H. Strandkov,
Department of Zoology,
University of Chicago,
Chicago 37, Illinois.

Dear Dr. Strandkov,

I shall be glad to speak to your Genetics Club. Unfortunately, due to the coincidence of the SAB meetings, the earliest time which can be conveniently arranged will be Friday, May 21. I hope that this will not be unsuitable. Probably, we shall take the 2:15 PM Milwaukee Road out of Madison which arrives in Chicago 5:20 (CST). Unfortunately we are not well acquainted with the City of Chicago; however if you can give us explicit directions we could find our way to the University. Either Friday evening or Saturday morning would be satisfactory for the address.

My wife and I very much enjoyed our brief visit to your department a week or so ago. Thank you for the offer of paying expenses. If these arrangements are satisfactory, we shall write again later confirming our plans.

Yours sincerely,

Joshua Lederberg
Assistant Professor of Genetics.